

Painting Doors with Raised Panels

When painting cabinet doors with raised panels, you need to paint the rails and stiles in a specific order so you keep a wet edge and maintain the proper look of the rails and stiles. Work quickly and carefully, making sure to keep your brush adequately filled and using just two or three brush strokes per application. Paint the center panel, rails, and stiles from the inside out in the order shown.